

Call Park

On the Panasonic systems we have programmed a call park button to park a call. During a conversation press PARK 1 or 2. The call is now parked and holding.

Anyone can retrieve the call with the handset down then pressing PARK 1 or 2. Then picking up the handset.

An illustration of this features use follows: A call comes in for Joe. The receptionist parks the call by pressing PARK 1. The call is then announced over the intercom or paging system that Joe has a call parked at 1. Joe can go to any phone and press Park 1 and be connected with the caller.
